Brief Bio

Adam M. Rotunda, MD, FACMS, is a Board Certified Dermatologist, Fellow of the American Academy of Dermatology, a Fellow of the American College of Mohs Surgery, an Assistant Clinical Professor of Dermatology at the David Geffen School of Medicine (UCLA) and an Assistant Clinical Professor of Dermatology at UCI (University of California, Irvine). Dr. Rotunda graduated from Cornell University summa cum laude with Honors in Nutritional Sciences and was Valedictorian at the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center, in Brooklyn, NY. He specialized in Dermatology at UCLA and subsequently completed a fellowship in skin cancer and dermatologic surgery under the tutelage of Richard G. Bennett, MD, in Santa Monica, CA.

Along with Michael S. Kolodney, MD, PhD, Dr. Rotunda co-invented Kybella™ (deoxycholic acid, Allergan, plc), a first in class injectable medication approved for the reduction of submental (under the chin) fat.

Dr. Rotunda has lectured at over 60 national and international physician conferences about injectable fat-loss therapies and enhancing patient experiences, and has authored over 60 original and review scientific papers as well as book chapters. He is current the ASDS President-elect.

Dr. Rotunda is in private practice devoted exclusively to skin cancer, in Newport Beach, CA. He is currently creating more diversify in his life, teaching yoga and working on getting his first Academy Award (okay, he's just taking acting classes at the moment).
