Brief Bio

Dr. Margaret Mann is the Director of Aesthetic Dermatology and Associate Director of Dermatologic Surgery at Case Western Reserve University and University Hospitals Cleveland Medical Center. Dr. Mann specializes in all aspects of dermatologic surgery, ranging from removal of skin cancer by conventional surgical methods to the highly specialized procedure of Mohs micrographic surgery. She is an expert in advanced surgical reconstruction following the removal of skin cancer.

Dr. Mann is a national expert in venous disease and offers the latest minimally invasive outpatient procedure for spider and varicose veins. She is certified with the American Board of Venous and Lymphatic Medicine and serves on the Board of Director of the American College of Phlebology. She is the author of multiple articles in her areas of expertise and frequent lecturer at national dermatology meetings.

She has been recognized as one of the Best Doctors in America from 2008-2011 for her dermatologic service at the University of California, Irvine, and in 2013 and 2014 as one of the Best Doctors in Cleveland Magazine for her dermatologic expertise. Dr. Mann enjoys teaching and mentoring colleagues, residents, and medical students.
